H. abbr. 1. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. 2. House report. 3. HOUSE BILL. 4. In the citation of English statutes, a king named Henry. 5. In the Year Books, the Hilary term. See YEAR BOOKS. 6. In tax assessments and other such official reports, a house.

habe (hay-bee). [Law Latin] A form of the salutatory expression ave ("hail"). — Also termed have (hay-vee).

habeas corpora juratorum (hay-bee-əs kor-pər-ə juur-ə-tor-əm). [Law Latin "that you have the bodies of the jurors"] Hist. A writ commanding the sheriff to bring in jurors and, if necessary, to take their lands and goods as security to ensure their attendance in court for a trial setting. • This writ issued from the Court of Common Pleas and served the same purpose as a distringas juratores in the King's Bench. The writ was abolished in 1852.

habeas corpus (hay-bee-əs kor-pəs). [Law Latin "that you have the body"] A writ employed to bring a person before a court, most frequently to ensure that the party's imprisonment or detention is not illegal (habeas corpus ad subjiciendum). • In addition to being used to test the legality of an arrest or commitment, the writ may be used to obtain review of (1) the regularity of extradition process, (2) the right to or amount of bail, or (3) the jurisdiction of a court that has imposed a criminal sentence. — Abbr. H.C. — Sometimes shortened to habeas. — Also termed writ of habeas corpus; Great Writ.

habeas corpus ad deliberandum et recipiendum (hay-bee-əs kor-pəs ad di-lib-ə-ran-dəm et ri-sip-ee-en-dəm). [Law Latin habeas corpus ad faciendum et recipiendum (hay-bee-əs kor-pəs ad fay-shee-en-dəm et ri-sip-ee-en-dəm). [Law Latin "that you have the body to do and receive"] Hist. A writ used in civil cases to remove the case, and also the body of the defendant, from an inferior court to a superior court. — Also termed habeas corpus cum causa. See CERTIORARI.

"that you have the body to consider and receive"] Hist. A writ used to remove a person for trial from one county to the county where the person allegedly committed the offense. Cf. EXTRADITION.

habeas corpus ad prosequendum (hay-bee-əs kor-pəs ad prahs-ə-kwen-dəm). [Law Latin "that you have the body to prosecute"] Hist. A writ used in criminal cases to bring before a court a prisoner to be tried on charges other than those for which the prisoner is currently being confined.

habeas corpus ad respondendum (hay-bee-əs kor-pəs ad ree-spon-den-dəm). [Law Latin "that you have the body to respond"] Hist. A writ used in civil cases to remove a person from one court's custody into that of another court, in which the person may then be sued.

habeas corpus ad satisfaciendum (hay-bee-əs kor-pəs ad sat-is-fay-shee-en-dəm). [Law Latin "that you have the body to make amends"] In England, a writ used to bring a prisoner against whom a judgment has been entered to some superior court so that the plaintiff can proceed to execute that judgment.

habeas corpus ad subjiciendum (hay-bee-əs kor-pəs ad səb-jish-ee-en-dəm). [Law Latin "that you have the body to submit to"] A writ directed to someone detaining another person and commanding that the detainee be brought to court. — Usu. shortened to habeas corpus.

habeas corpus ad testificandum (hay-bee-əs kor-pəs ad tes-ti-fi-kan-dəm). [Law Latin "that you have the body to testify"] Hist. A writ used in civil and criminal cases to bring a prisoner to court to testify.

habeas corpus cum causa. See habeas corpus ad faciendum et recipiendum.

Habeas Corpus Act. 1. One of the four great charters of English liberty (31 Car. 2, 1679), securing to English subjects speedy relief from all unlawful imprisonments. • The other three great charters are Magna Carta, the Petition of Right (3 Car. 1, 1628), and the Bill of Rights (1 Wm. & M. 1689). The Habeas Corpus Act does not apply in Scotland. 2. A statute deriving ultimately from the English statute and enacted in the United States as a constitutional guarantee of personal liberty.

habeas corpus cum causa. See habeas corpus ad faciendum et recipiendum under HABEAS CORPUS.

habendum clause (hə-ben-dəm). 1. The part of a deed that defines the extent of the interest being granted and any conditions affecting the grant. • The introductory words to the clause are ordinarily to have and to hold. — Also termed to-have-and-to-hold clause. 2. An oil-and-gas lease provision that defines the lease's primary term and that usu. extends the lease for a secondary term of indefinite duration as long as oil, gas, or other minerals are being produced. • Most jurisdictions require production of paying quantities to keep the lease in effect.

habendum et tenendum (hə-ben-dəm et tən-dəm). [Law Latin] Hist. To have and to hold. • This formal phrase appeared in land deeds and defined the estate or interest being transferred. See HABENDUM CLAUSE; TO HAVE AND TO HOLD.

habentes homines (hə-ben-teez hom-ə-nee), n. [Law Latin “men who have”] Hist. Rich men. — Also termed foesting-men.

habere (hə-beer-ee), vb. [Latin “to have”] Roman law. To have (the right to) something. • This term was sometimes distinguished from tenere (to hold) and possidere (to possess), with habere referring to the right, tenere to the fact, and possidere to both.

“Habere’ has two meanings; for we say that the owner of a thing ‘has’ it and also that a nonowner who holds the thing ‘has’ it. Lastly, we use the word in relation to property deposited with us.” Digest of Justinian 45.1.38.9 (Ulpian, Ad Sabinum 49).

habere facias possessionem (hə-beer-ee fay-shee-əs pə-zes[h]-ee-oh-nəm), n. [Law Latin “that you cause to have possession”] Hist. A writ giving a successful ejectment-action plaintiff the possession of the recovered land. — Often shortened to habere facias or hab. fa.

habere facias seisinam (hə-beer-ee fay-shee-əs see-zi-nəm), n. [Law Latin “that you cause to have seisin”] Hist. A writ of execution commanding the sheriff to give the applicant seisin of the recovered land. • This writ was the proper process for giving seisin of a freehold, as distinguished from giving only a chattel interest in land. See SEISIN.

habere facias visum (hə-beer-ee fay-shee-əs vi-səm or -zəm), n. [Law Latin “that you cause to have a view”] Hist. A writ allowing a litigant to inspect the lands in controversy.

habere licere (hə-beer-ee li-seer-ee), vb. [Latin “to allow to have”] Roman law. To allow a purchaser to possess and enjoy property undisturbed. • The term denoted a seller's duty; if the duty was breached, the purchaser could maintain an actio ex empto.

hab. fa. abbr. HABERE FACIAS POSSESSIONEM.

hadgonel (had-gə-nel), n. Hist. A tax or mulct.

Hadley v. Baxendale rule. Contracts. The principle that consequential damages will be awarded for breach of contract only if, at the time of contracting, the parties contemplated that this type of damage would result from the breach. Hadley v. Baxendale, 9 Exch. 341 (1854). • Hadley v. Baxendale is best known for its impact on a nonbreaching party's ability to recover consequential damages, but the case also confirmed the principle that the nonbreaching party may recover damages that arise naturally from the breach. See DAMAGES.

"The rationale of the decision appears in Baron Alderson's noted statement of what came to be known as the two rules of Hadley v. Baxendale. The first rule was that the injured party may recover damages for loss that 'may fairly and reasonably be considered [as] arising naturally, i.e., according to the usual course of things....' The second and more significant rule went to recovery of what have come to be known as 'consequential' damages.... By introducing this requirement of 'contemplation' for the recovery of consequential damages, the court imposed an important new limitation on the scope of recovery that juries could allow for breach of contract. The result was to impose a more severe limitation on the recovery of damages for breach of contract than that applicable to actions in tort or for breach of warranty, in which substantial or proximate cause is the test." E. Allan Farnsworth, Contracts § 12.14, at 874-75 (1982).

had-not test. See BUT-FOR TEST.

haec est conventio (heek est kən-ven-shee-oh). [Law Latin] Hist. This is the agreement. • These formal words commonly prefaced written agreements.

Hague Convention. One of a number of international conventions that address different legal issues and attempt to standardize procedures between nations.

Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction. An international convention (established in 1980) that seeks to counteract child-snatching by noncustodial parents. • The Hague Convention is a private legal mechanism available to parents seeking the return of, or access to, their children. More than 46 countries are parties to the Convention, including the United States, which became a signatory on July 1, 1988.

Hague Convention on the Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents. An international convention, convened on November 15, 1965, that dictates the formal and usu. complicated procedures for effecting service of process in a foreign country. • More than 35 countries are parties to the convention, including the United States, which became a signatory on February 10, 1969.

Hague Convention on the Taking of Evidence Abroad in Civil or Commercial Matters. An international convention, convened on October 26, 1968, that provides the formal procedures for obtaining evidence in a foreign country, such as taking a deposition abroad. • More than 27 countries are parties, including the United States, which became a signatory on October 7, 1972.

Hague Tribunal. Int'l law. A permanent court of arbitration established by the Hague Peace Conference of 1899 to facilitate immediate recourse to arbitration to settle international differences. • The court was given jurisdiction over all arbitration cases, unless the parties agreed to institute a special tribunal. An international bureau was likewise established to serve as a registry for the court and to issue communications about the court's meetings. The court is "permanent" only in the sense that there is a permanent list of members from whom arbitrators in a given case are selected. Apart from making minor changes in the court, the Second Hague Conference of 1907 provided that, of the two arbitrators appointed by each party, only one should be a national of the appointing state.

haircut. Securities. The discount required by the National Association of Securities Dealers on the value of stock that a brokerage firm holds in its own account at the time of filing a monthly report about the firm's net capital condition.

handbill. A written or printed notice displayed, handed out, or posted, usu. to inform interested people of an event or of something to be done. ● Posting and distribution of handbills is regulated by ordinance or statute in most localities.

hand down, vb. To announce or file an opinion in a case. ● The term was originally used in connection with an appellate-court opinion sent to the court below; it was later expanded to include any decision by a court on a case or point under consideration.

hand-fasting. Hist. A betrothal; marrying by clasping another's hand and agreeing to live together as husband and wife.

Hand formula. A balancing test for determining whether conduct has created an unreasonable risk of harm, first formulated by Judge Learned Hand in United States v. Carroll Towing Co., 159 F.2d 169 (2d Cir. 1947). ● Under this test, an actor is negligent if the burden of taking adequate precautions against the harm is outweighed by the probable gravity of the harm multiplied by the probability that the harm will occur.

"The legal standard applicable to most unintentional tort cases is that of negligence, defined by Judge Learned Hand as follows: the defendant is guilty of negligence if the loss caused by the accident, multiplied by the probability of the accident's occurring, exceeds the burden of the precautions that the defendant might have taken to avert it. This is an economic test. . . . Although the Hand formula is of relatively recent origin, the method that it capsulizes has been the basic one used to determine negligence ever since negligence was first adopted as the standard to govern accident cases." Richard A. Posner, Economic Analysis of Law § 6.2, at 122–23 (2d ed. 1977).

handhabend (hand-hab-ænd), adj. Hist. (Of a thief) caught in possession of a stolen item.

hand note. See NOTE (1).

handsale. Hist. A sale memorialized by shaking hands. ● Over time, handsale also came to refer to the earnest money given immediately after the handshake. In some northern European countries, shaking hands was necessary to bind a bargain. This custom sometimes persists for oral contracts. The Latin phrase for handsale was venditio per mutuum manuum complexionem ("a sale by the mutual joining of hands"). — Also spelled handsel.

hands-off agreement. A noncompete contractual provision between an employer and a former employee prohibiting the employee from using information learned during his or her employment to divert or to steal customers from the former employer.

hand up, vb. (Of a grand jury) to deliver an indictment to a criminal court.

handwriting. Evidence. 1. A person's chirography; the cast or form of writing peculiar to a person, including the size, shape, and style of letters, and whatever gives individuality to one's writing. 2. Something written by hand; a writing specimen. ● Nonexpert opinion about the genuineness of handwriting, based on familiarity not acquired for litigation purposes, can authenticate a document. Fed. R. Evid. 901(b)(2).

hang, vb. (Of a jury) to be unable to reach a verdict <the jury was hung after 12 hours of continuous deliberation>. See hung jury under JURY.

hanged, drawn, and quartered. Hist. An ancient sentence for high treason, consisting of the prisoner's being drawn on a hurdle to the place of execution, hanged by the neck (but not until dead), disemboweled, and beheaded, and the body then divided into four pieces for the king's disposal. ● The sentence was abolished in England in 1870. See TREASON.

hanging, n. The act of carrying out an execution by suspending the person above the ground by a rope around the person's neck. ● Death is caused by asphyxiation (by being hoisted from the ground) or by a sudden breaking of the cervical vertebrae (by being dropped from a height).

harmonic plane. An arbitrarily selected zero chosen by the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey to serve as the base for its tidal tables, charts, and maps.

harmony. Agreement or accord; conformity <the decision in Jones is in harmony with earlier Supreme Court precedent>. — harmonize, vb.

harrow (har-oh or hæ-roh), n. [fr. Old French haro] Hist. In Norman and early English law, an outcry (or hue and cry) after felons and malefactors. — Also termed haro. See HUE AND CRY. Cf. CLAMEUR DE HARO.

Harter Act. Maritime law. An 1893 federal statute that allocates the risks of damage to cargo at sea by relieving a carrier of liability for certain events (such as negligent navigation) provided that the carrier has exercised due diligence in sending the ship out in a seaworthy condition. 46 USCA app. §§ 190–196. See CARRIAGE OF GOODS BY SEA ACT.

"During the eighteenth century, common carriers began limiting this liability by inserting clauses in bills of lading relieving them from some of the risks of the voyage. Because of their superior bargaining power, the carriers, through such clauses, eventually were able to exculpate themselves from all liability to the shipper or his consignee, even that for damages caused by the negligence of the master and crew during the voyage. American courts refused to honor these exculpatory clauses, holding them invalid because of the inequality of bargaining power between shippers and common carriers. However, courts of other maritime nations upheld such clauses. As a result, American merchant vessels were at a disadvantage in the world market. To lessen this disadvantage, Congress passed the Harter Act. . . ." Frank L. Maraist, Admiralty in a Nutshell 58–59 (2d ed. 1988).

Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvement

Act. A federal statute, enacted in 1976, that generally strengthens the Justice Department's antitrust enforcement powers, esp. by requiring firms to give notice to the Federal Trade Commission and the Justice Department of an intent to merge if one of the firms has annual revenues or assets exceeding $100 million, and the acquisition price or value of the acquired firm exceeds $15 million.

haspa (has-pə), n. [Law Latin] Hist. The hasp of a door. • Livery of seisin was often made in the doorway of a structure located on the property being transferred.

hasta (has-tə), n. [Latin "spear"] 1. Roman law. A sale by auction, indicated by a spear placed into the ground. • The phrase hasta subicere ("to put under the spear") meant to put up for sale at auction. 2. Hist. A symbol used to invest a fief.

Hatch Act. A federal statute, enacted in 1939, that restricts political-campaign activities by federal employees and limits contributions by individuals to political campaigns. 5 USCA §§ 1501–1508. • Senator Carl Hatch sponsored the Act following disclosures that Works Progress Administration officials were using their positions to campaign for the Democratic Party.

hate crime. See CRIME.

hate speech. See SPEECH.

hat money. Maritime law. A small gratuity traditionally paid to the master (and sometimes the crew) of a ship for the care of the cargo; PRIMAGE. — Also termed pocket money.

hauber ([h]aw-bər), n. [Old French] Hist. A high lord; a great baron.

haustus (haws-təs), n. [Latin “a drawing”] Roman law. A species of servitude consisting in the right to draw water from a well or spring on another’s property — the term being common esp. in the form aqueahaustus. ● A right-of-way (iter) to the well was implied in the easement.

have. See HABE.

have and hold. See TO HAVE AND TO HOLD.

hawker. An itinerant or traveling salesperson who sells goods in a public street, esp. one who, in a loud voice, cries out the benefits of the items offered for sale; a peddler. ● A hawker is usu. required to have a license.

hawking. The act of offering, by outcry, goods for sale from door to door or on a public street.

haybote. (hay-boht), n. [fr. French haye “a hedge” + Saxon bote “an allowance”] Hist. The right or privilege of a tenant for life or years to have material to repair the hedges or fences, or to make farming implements. — Also termed hedgebote. See BOTE.

hayward. Hist. 1. An officer of a town or manor responsible for maintaining fences and hedges, esp. to prevent cattle from breaking through to an enclosed pasture. 2. A cattle herdsman.

Hazantown agreement (hay-zən-town). A type of collective-bargaining agreement used in the garment industry, governing the relationship between a jobber and the contractors that produce the jobber’s garments. ● The agreement does not govern the relationship between the jobber and its own employees. It governs the relationship between the jobber and the contractors that manufacture the garments that the jobber sells, including agreements that the jobber will use only unionized contractors, will ensure that salaries and bonuses are appropriately paid, and will contribute to employee-benefit funds maintained on behalf of the contractor’s employees. This term gets its name

hazard, n. 1. Danger; peril.

extraordinary hazard. Workers’ compensation. An unusual occupational danger that is increased by the acts of employees other than the injured worker.

imminent hazard. An immediate danger; esp., in environmental law, a situation in which the continued use of a pesticide will probably result in unreasonable adverse effects on the environment or will involve an unreasonable danger to the survival of an endangered species. 7 USCA § 136(1).

2. The risk or probability of loss or injury, esp. a loss or injury covered by an insurance policy.

moral hazard. 1. The risk that an insured will destroy property or allow it to be destroyed (usu. by burning) in order to collect the insurance proceeds. 2. The insured’s potential interest, if any, in the burning of the property.

3. Hist. An unlawful dice game in which the chances of winning are complicated by arbitrary rules.

hazarder (haz-ər-dər), n. Hist. A player in an unlawful game of dice. — Also spelled hazardor.

hazardous contract. See aleatory contract under CONTRACT.

hazardous employment. See EMPLOYMENT.

hazardous negligence. See NEGLIGENCE.

hazardous substance. 1. A toxic pollutant; an imminently dangerous chemical or mixture. 2. See hazardous waste under WASTE (2).

hazardous waste. See WASTE (2).

hazard pay. Special compensation for work done under unpleasant or unsafe conditions.

H.B. See house bill under BILL (3).

H.C. abbr. 1. HOUSE OF COMMONS. 2. HABEAS CORPUS.

HDC. abbr. HOLDER IN DUE COURSE.

he. A pronoun of the masculine gender, traditionally used and construed in statutes to include both sexes, as well as corporations. • It may also be read as they. Because of the trend toward nonsexist language, careful drafters avoid using the generic pronouns he, him, and his unless the reference is only to a male person.

headborough. See BORSHOLDER.

headlease. A primary lease under which a sublease has been granted. — Also spelled head lease. — Also termed primary lease; chief lease.

headlessor. A lessor on a lease of property that has been subleased.

head money. 1. A tax on people who fit within a designated class; a poll tax. See capitation tax and poll tax under TAX. 2. A bounty offered by a government for a prisoner taken at sea during a naval engagement. • This bounty is divided among the officers and crew in the same manner as prize money. See PRIZE MONEY. 3. A tax or duty on shipowners, imposed by an 1882 federal statute, for every immigrant brought into the United States. — Also termed head tax. 4. Hist. A bounty or reward paid to a person who killed a bandit or outlaw and produced the head as evidence. See BOUNTY; REWARD.

headnote. A case summary that appears before the printed judicial opinion in a law report, addresses a point of law, and usu. includes the relevant facts bearing on that point of law. — Also termed syllabus; synopsis; reporter's syllabus.

"The syllabus or headnote is a brief statement of the propositions of law decided in the case, being in the nature of a table of contents of the case. The modern method is to number each proposition in the syllabus, and to indicate, by corresponding figures, the exact place in the decision where the point mentioned in the syllabus can be found. Sometimes, especially in the older reports, the syllabus is inaccurate or misleading, and it is not safe to rely on it without first verifying it from the decision." Frank Hall Childs, Where and How to Find the Law 22 (1922).

headnote lawyer. See LAWYER.

head of household. 1. The primary income-provider within a family. 2. For income-tax purposes, an unmarried or separated person (other than a surviving spouse) who provides a home for dependents for more than one-half of the taxable year. • A head of a household is taxed at a lower rate than a single person who is not head of a household. Cf. HOUSEHOLDER.

headright. In American Indian law, a tribemember's right to a pro rata portion of income from a tribal trust fund set up under the Allotment Act of 1906. • This type of trust fund is funded largely by mineral royalties arising from land held or once held by the tribemember's tribe.

headright certificate. Hist. A certificate issued under authority of a Republic of Texas law of 1839 providing that a person was entitled to a grant of 640 acres if the person (1) had immigrated to the Republic between 1 October 1837 and 1 January 1840, (2) was a head of household, and (3) actually resided within the Republic with his or her family. • The grant was to be held under the certificate for three years and then conveyed by absolute deed to the settler.

head shop. A retail establishment that sells items intended for use with illegal drugs.

head-silver. See common fine under FINE (4).

head-start injunction. An injunction prohibiting the defendant from using a trade secret for a period equal to the time between the date of the secret's theft and the date when the secret became public, since that period equals the "head start" that the defendant unfairly obtained over the rest of the industry.

headstream. The source of a river.

head tax. 1. See poll tax under TAX. 2. HEAD MONEY (3).

headwater. 1. (usu. pl.) The part of a river or stream that is closest to its source. 2. HEADSTREAM.

health. 1. The state of being sound or whole in body, mind, or soul. 2. Freedom from pain or sickness.

public health. 1. The health of the community at large. 2. The healthful or sanitary condition of the general body of people or the community en masse; esp., the methods of maintaining the health of the community, as by preventive medicine and organized care for the sick. • Many cities have a "public health department" or other agency responsible for maintaining the public health; federal laws dealing with health are administered by the Department of Health and Human Services.

sound health. Insurance. A policy applicant's good condition; a state of health characterized by a lack of grave impairment or disease, or of any ailment that seriously affects the applicant's health.

healthcare-insurance receivable. An interest in or claim under an insurance policy, being a right to payment of a monetary obligation for healthcare goods or services provided. UCC § 9-104(c).

health insurance. See INSURANCE.

health law. A statute, ordinance, or code that prescribes sanitary standards and regulations for the purpose of promoting and preserving the community's health.

health-maintenance organization. A group of participating healthcare providers that furnish medical services to enrolled members of a group health-insurance plan. — Abbr. HMO. Cf. PREFERRED-PROVIDER ORGANIZATION.

health officer. A government official charged with executing and enforcing health laws. ● The powers of a health officer (such as the Surgeon General) are regulated by law.

hearing. 1. A judicial session, usu. open to the public, held for the purpose of deciding issues of fact or of law, sometimes with witnesses testifying <the court held a hearing on the admissibility of DNA evidence in the murder case>. 2. Administrative law. Any setting in which an affected person presents arguments to an agency decision-maker . 3. In legislative practice, any proceeding in which legislators or their designees receive testimony about legislation that might be enacted <the shooting victim spoke at the Senate's hearing on gun control>. See PRELIMINARY HEARING. 4. Equity practice. A trial.

adjudicatory hearing (ə-joo-di-kə-tor-ee).

1. A hearing held by a juvenile court to determine whether a juvenile has engaged in delinquent conduct; a trial of a youth accused of a delinquency. See JUVENILE DELINQUENCY. Cf. detention hearing; disposition hearing. 2. Administrative law. An agency proceeding in which the rights and duties of a particular person are decided after notice and an opportunity to be heard. — Also termed adjudicatory proceeding.

conformity hearing. See CONFORMITY HEARING.

Daubert hearing. See DAUBERT HEARING.

detention hearing. A hearing held by a juvenile court to determine whether a juvenile accused of delinquent conduct should be detained, continued in confinement, or released pending an adjudicatory hearing. Cf. adjudicatory hearing; disposition hearing.

discharge hearing. See DISCHARGE HEARING.

disposition hearing. A hearing held to determine the most appropriate form of custody or treatment for a juvenile who has been found at an adjudicatory hearing to be a juvenile delinquent or a status offender. Cf. adjudicatory hearing; detention hearing.

evidentiary hearing. 1. A hearing at which evidence is presented, as opposed to a hearing at which only legal argument is presented. 2. See ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEEDING.

exclusionary hearing. A pretrial hearing conducted to review and determine the admissibility of alleged illegally obtained evidence.

fair hearing. A judicial or administrative hearing conducted in accordance with due process.

Fatico hearing. See FATICO HEARING.

Franks hearing. See FRANKS HEARING.

full hearing. 1. A hearing at which the parties are allowed notice of each other's claims and are given ample opportunity to present their positions with evidence and argument. 2. See ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEEDING.

hearing de novo (dee or di noh-voh). 1. A reviewing court's decision of a matter anew, giving no deference to a lower court's findings. 2. A new hearing of a matter, conducted as if the original hearing had not taken place.

Jackson-Denno hearing. See JACKSON-DENNO HEARING.

Mapp hearing. See MAPP HEARING.

omnibus hearing. A hearing at which many items are discussed and considered.

public hearing. A hearing that, within reasonable limits, is open to anyone who wishes to observe. ● Such a hearing is often characterized by the right to appear and present evidence in a case before an impartial tribunal.

reaffirmation hearing. See REAFFIRMATION HEARING.

revocation hearing. Criminal procedure. A hearing held to determine whether a parolee should be returned to prison for violating the terms of parole.

suppression hearing. A pretrial hearing in which a criminal defendant seeks to prevent the introduction of evidence alleged to have been seized illegally.

trial-type hearing. See ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEEDING.

unfair hearing. A hearing that is not conducted in accordance with due process, as when the defendant is denied the opportunity to prepare or consult with counsel.

Wade hearing. See WADE HEARING.

hearing examiner. See ADMINISTRATIVE-LAW JUDGE.

hearing officer. See ADMINISTRATIVE-LAW JUDGE.

hearsay. 1. Traditionally, testimony that is given by a witness who relates not what he or she knows personally, but what others have said, and that is therefore dependent on the credibility of someone other than the witness. • Such testimony is generally inadmissible under the rules of evidence. 2. In federal law, a statement (either a verbal assertion or nonverbal assertive conduct), other than one made by the declarant while testifying at the trial or hearing, offered in evidence to prove the truth of the matter asserted. Fed. R. Evid. 801(c). — Also termed hearsay evidence; secondhand evidence.

double hearsay. A hearsay statement that contains further hearsay statements within it, none of which is admissible unless exceptions to the rule against hearsay can be applied to each level <the double hearsay was the investigation's report stating that Amy admitted to running the red light>. Fed. R. Evid. 805. — Also termed multiple hearsay; hearsay within hearsay.

hearsay rule. The rule that no assertion offered as testimony can be received unless it is or has been open to test by cross-examination or an opportunity for cross-examination, except as provided otherwise by the rules of evidence, by court rules, or by statute. • The chief reasons for the rule are that out-of-court statements amounting to hearsay are not made under oath and are not subject to cross-examination. Fed. R. Evid. 802. Rule 803 provides 23 explicit exceptions to the hearsay rule, regardless of whether the out-of-court declarant is available to testify, and Rule 804 provides 5 more exceptions for situations in which the declarant is unavailable to testify.

"[T]he great hearsay rule . . . is a fundamental rule of safety, but one overenforced and abused, — the spoiled child of the family, — proudest scion of our jury-trial rules of evidence, but so petted and indulged that it has become a nuisance and an obstruction to speedy and efficient trials." John H. Wigmore, A Students' Textbook of the Law of Evidence 238 (1935).

hearsay within hearsay. See double hearsay under HEARSAY.

heartbalm statute. A state law that abolishes the rights of action for alienation of affections, breach of promise to marry, criminal conversation, and seduction of a person over the legal age of consent.

hearth money. Hist. 1. A tax of two shillings levied on every fireplace in England (14 Car. 2, ch. 10). • This extremely unpopular tax was enacted in 1662 during the reign of Charles II and abolished in 1688. 2. PETER-PENCE. — Also termed (in sense 1) chimney money.

heat of passion. Rage, terror, or furious hatred suddenly aroused by some immediate provocation, usu. another person's words or actions. • At common law, the heat of passion could serve, in a murder defense, as a mitigating circumstance that would reduce the charge to manslaughter. — Also termed sudden heat of passion; sudden heat; sudden passion; hot blood; furor brevis. Cf. COLD BLOOD; COOL BLOOD.

"To constitute the heat of passion included in this requirement it is not necessary for the passion to be so extreme that the slayer does not know what he is doing at the time; but it must be so extreme that for the moment his action is being directed by passion rather than by reason." Rollin M. Perkins & Ronald N. Boyce, Criminal Law 99 (3d ed. 1982).

heavy work. See WORK.

hebote. See HEREBOTE.

hedagium (hə-day-jee-əm), n. [Law Latin] Hist. A toll or custom due at a wharf for landing goods. • The Crown exempted particular persons and societies from this toll.

hedge, vb. To make advance arrangements to safeguard oneself from loss on an investment, speculation, or bet, as when a buyer of commodities insures against unfavorable price changes by buying in advance at a fixed rate for later delivery. — hedging, n.

hedgebote. See HAYBOTE.

hedge fund. A specialized investment group — usu. organized as a limited partnership or offshore investment company — that offers the possibility of high returns through risky techniques such as selling short or buying derivatives. • Most hedge funds are not registered with the SEC and are therefore restricted in marketing their services to the public.

hedonic damages. See DAMAGES.

hedonistic utilitarianism. See UTILITARIANISM.

heeding presumption. See PRESUMPTION.

heedlessness, n. The quality of being thoughtless and inconsiderate; esp., conduct whereby the actor disregards the rights or safety of others. • Heedlessness is often construed to involve the same degree of fault as recklessness. — heedless, adj. See RECKLESSNESS.

hegemonism (hi-jem-ə-niz-əm). 1. A philosophical position advocating hegemony. 2. All forms of political extension by means of hegemony.

hegemony (hi-jem-ə-nee), n. 1. Influence, authority, or supremacy over others <the hegemony of capitalism>. 2. The striving for leadership or predominant authority of one state of a confederacy or union over the others; political domination <the former Soviet Union's hegemony over Eastern Europe>. — hegemonic (hej-ə-mon-ik), adj.

heightened scrutiny. See INTERMEDIATE SCRUTINY.

heinous (hay-nəs), adj. (Of a crime or its perpetrator) that is shockingly atrocious or odious. — heinousness, n.

heir (air). 1. A person who, under the laws of intestacy, is entitled to receive an intestate decedent's property, esp. real property. — Also termed legal heir; heir at law; lawful heir; heir general.

"Laymen — and sometimes first-year law students taking exams — wrongly assume that one who receives real property by will is an heir. Technically, the word 'heir' is reserved for one who receives real property by action of the laws of intestacy, which operate today only in the absence of a valid will." Thomas F. Bergin & Paul G. Haskell, Preface to Estates in Land and Future Interests 14 n.32 (2d ed. 1984).

2. Loosely, a person who inherits real or personal property, whether by will or by intestate succession.

after-born heir. One born after the death of an intestate from whom the heir is entitled to inherit.

and his heirs. A term of art formerly required to create a fee simple absolute in transferring real property by will <A conveys Blackacre to B and his heirs>. • This phrasing originated in the translation of a Law French phrase used in medieval grants (a lui et a ses heritiers pour toujours "to him and his heirs forever"). See FEE SIMPLE.

"The development reached its culmination when the words 'and his heirs' in a transfer were thought to give full durational ownership to the immediate transferee and no ownership whatever to his heirs. This notion was expressed in the statement that the words 'and his heirs' are words of limitation and not words of purchase. They indicate the durational character of an estate, not its taker." Thomas F. Bergin & Paul G. Haskell, Preface to Estates in Land and Future Interests 93-94 (2d ed. 1984).

apparent heir. See heir apparent.

beneficiary heir (ben-ə-fish-ee-er-ee). Civil law. An heir who accepts an inheritance but files a benefit of inventory to limit his or her liability for estate debts to the value of the inheritance. — Also termed heir beneficiary. See BENEFIT OF INVENTORY. Cf. unconditional heir.

collateral heir. One who is neither a direct descendant nor an ancestor of the decedent, but whose kinship is through a collateral line, such as a brother, sister, uncle, aunt, nephew, niece, or cousin. Cf. lineal heir.

expectant heir. An heir who has a reversionary or remainder interest in property, or a chance of succeeding to it. — Also termed heir expectant. See REVERSION; REMAINDER. Cf. prospective heir.

"The reader should be aware that one never has an 'heir' until one is dead; one merely has an 'heir expectant' Thus, to say that an heir 'owns' anything is conceptually difficult. But . . . some unborn heirs may be entitled to the protection of the courts, and thus be said to have estates." Thomas F. Bergin & Paul G. Haskell, Preface to Estates in Land and Future Interests 26 n.13 (2d ed. 1984).

forced heir. A person whom the testator or donor cannot disinherit because the law reserves part of the estate for that person.

heir apparent. An heir who is certain to inherit unless he or she dies first or is excluded by a valid will. — Also termed apparent heir. Cf. heir presumptive.

"Heirs apparent are such, whose right of inheritance is indefeasible, provided they outlive the ancestor; as the eldest son or his issue, who must by the course of the common law be heirs to the father whenever he happens to die." 2 William Blackstone, Commentaries on the Laws of England 208 (1766).

heir beneficiary. See beneficiary heir.

heir by adoption. A person who has been adopted by (and thus has become an heir to) the deceased. • By statute in most jurisdictions, an adopted child has the same right of succession to intestate property as a biological child unless the deceased clearly expresses a contrary intention. Jurisdictions differ on whether an adopted child may in addition inherit from his or her natural parents or family.

heir by custom. Hist. In England, a person whose right of inheritance depends on a particular and local custom, such as gavelkind and borough English. See GAVELKIND; BOROUGH ENGLISH.

heir by devise. One to whom lands are given by will.

heir conventional. Civil law. One who takes a succession because of a contract or settlement entitling him or her to it.

heir expectant. See expectant heir.

heir in tail. See heir special.

heir male. Hist. The nearest male blood-relation of a decedent.

heir of the blood. An heir who succeeds to an estate because of consanguinity with the decedent, either in the ascending or descending line.

heir of the body. A lineal descendant of the decedent, excluding a surviving spouse, adopted children, and collateral relations. • The term of art heirs of the body was formerly used to create a fee tail <A conveys Blackacre to B and the heirs of his body>. — Also termed bodily heir.

heir presumptive. An heir who will inherit if the potential intestate dies immediately, but who may be excluded if another more closely related heir is born. — Also termed presumptive heir. Cf. heir apparent.

heirs and assigns. A term of art formerly required to create a fee simple <A conveys Blackacre to B and his heirs and assigns>.

heir special. Hist. An heir who receives property according to the nature of the estate held in fee tail. • Heirs special were said to receive property per formam doni (“by the form of the gift”). — Also termed heir in tail.

joint heir. 1. A coheir. 2. A person who is or will be an heir to both of two designated persons at the death of the survivor of them, the word joint being here applied to the ancestors rather than the heirs.

known heir. An heir who is present to claim an inheritance, the extent of which depends on there being no closer relative.

laughing heir. An heir distant enough to feel no grief when a relative dies and leaves a windfall to the heir.

lineal heir. A person who is either an ancestor or a descendant of the decedent, such as a parent or child. Cf. collateral heir.

natural heir. An heir by consanguinity as distinguished from a collateral heir, an heir by adoption, or a statutory heir (such as a person’s spouse).

presumptive heir. See heir presumptive.

pretermitted heir (pree-tər-mit-id). A child or spouse who has been omitted from a will, as when a testator makes a will naming his or her two children and then, sometime later, has two more children who are not mentioned in the will. • Most states have so-called “pretermitted-heir statutes” under which an omitted child or spouse receives the same share of the estate as if the testator had died intestate, unless the omission was intentional. — Also termed (more specifically) pretermitted child; pretermitted spouse. See PRETERMitted-HEIR STATUTE.

prospective heir. An heir who may inherit but may be excluded; an heir apparent or an heir presumptive. Cf. expectant heir.

right heir. 1. Hist. The preferred heir to an estate tail, as distinguished from a general heir. • An estate tail would pass to a general heir only on the failure of the preferred heir and his line. 2. HEIR (1).

testamentary heir (tes-tə-men-tə-ree or -tree). Civil law. A person who is appointed heir in the decedent’s will.

unconditional heir. Civil law. A person who chooses — expressly or tacitly — to inherit without any reservation or without making an inventory. Cf. beneficiary heir.

heir apparent. See HEIR.

heir by adoption. See HEIR.

heir by custom. See HEIR.

heir by devise. See HEIR.

heir conventional. See HEIR.

heirdom. The state of being an heir; succession by inheritance.

heir expectant. See expectant heir under HEIR.

heir general. See HEIR.

heir-hunter. A person whose business is to track down missing heirs.

heir in tail. See heir special under HEIR.

heirless estate. See ESTATE.

heirloom. 1. An item of personal property that by local custom, contrary to the usual legal rule, descends to the heir along with the inheritance, instead of passing to the executor or administrator of the last owner; traditional examples are an ancestor's coat of armor, family portraits, title deeds, and keys. • Blackstone gave a false etymology that many have copied: "The termination, loom, is of Saxon origin; in which language it signifies a limb or member; so that an heirloom is nothing else, but a limb or member of the inheritance." 2 William Blackstone, Commentaries on the Law of England 427 (1766). In fact, loom derives from Old English geloma "utensil," and loom meant "implement, tool." 2. Popularly, a valued possession of great sentimental value passed down through generations within a family.

"Heir-looms, strictly so called, are now very seldom to be met with. They may be defined to be such personal chattels as go, by force of a special custom, to the heir, along with the inheritance, and not to the executor or administrator of the last owner. The owner of an heirloom cannot by his will bequeath the heirloom, if he leave the land to descend to his heir; for in such a case the force of custom will prevail over the bequest, which, not coming into operation until after the decease of the owner, is too late to supersede the custom. . . . In popular language the term 'heirloom' is generally applied to plate, pictures or articles of property which have been assigned by deed of settlement or bequeathed by will to trustees, in trust to permit the same to be used and enjoyed by the persons for the time being in possession, under the settlement or will, of the mansion-house in which the articles may be placed." Joshua Williams, Principles of the Law of Personal Property 13-14 (11th ed. 1881).

heir male. See HEIR.

heir of the blood. See HEIR.

heir of the body. See HEIR.

heir presumptive. See HEIR.

heirs and assigns. See HEIR.

heirship. 1. The quality or condition of being an heir. 2. The relation between an ancestor and an heir.

heir special. See HEIR.

hell-or-high-water clause. A clause in a personal-property lease requiring the lessee to continue to make full rent payments to the lessor even if the thing leased is unsuitable, defective, or destroyed.

hell-or-high-water rule. 1. The principle that a personal-property lessee must pay the full rent due, regardless of any claim against the lessor, unless the lessee proves unequal bargaining power or unconscionability. 2. Insurance. The principle that an insured's automobile-liability policy will cover the insured while using a vehicle owned by another if the insured uses the vehicle in a manner within the scope of the permission granted.

henceforth, adv. From now on <the newly enacted rule will apply henceforth>.

Henricus Vetus (hen-ri-kəs vee-təs). [Law Latin] Henry the Old (or Elder). • This term was used in early English charters to distinguish King Henry I from later kings of the same name.

heordpenny (hərd-pen-ee), n. See PETER-PENCE.

Hepburn Act. A 1906 federal statute that amended the Interstate Commerce Act to (1) increase the (now defunct) Interstate Commerce Commission's jurisdiction to include pipelines, (2) prohibit free passes except to employees, (3) prohibit common carriers from transporting any products (except timber) in which they had an interest, and (4) require joint tariffs and a uniform system of accounts.

heptarchy (hep-tahr-kee). 1. A government by seven rulers. 2. A nation divided into seven governments, specif. the seven Anglo-Saxon kingdoms of Kent, Sussex, Essex, Wessex, East Anglia, Mercia, and Northumbria existing before the Norman Conquest.

herald, n. 1. In England and Scotland, one of several officers responsible for keeping genealogical lists and tables, adjusting armorial bearings, and regulating the ceremonies at royal coronations and funerals. • There are six in England and three in Scotland. 2. Hist. A messenger who announces royal or state proclamations, and who carries diplomatic messages

(esp. proclamations of war, peace, or truce) between kings or countries.

Heralds' College. A royal corporation responsible in England for granting and recording armorial insignia and genealogies, and for dealing with matters of precedence. • The College was founded by Richard III in 1484, is governed by the Earl Marshal, and consists of three kings of arms, six heralds, and four pursuivants. The heralds' books, based on family-lineage inquiries made throughout England, are considered good evidence of pedigrees. The heralds' office is still allowed to make grants of arms and to grant name changes. • Also termed College of Arms.

herbage (ər-bij). In England, an easement or liberty of pasturage on another's land.

herdwerch (hərd-wərk), n. Hist. Herdsmen's work, or customary labor, done by shepherds and inferior tenants at the lord's will. — Also spelled heordwerch.

hereafter, adv. 1. From now on; henceforth <because of the highway construction, she will hereafter take the bus to work>. 2. At some future time <the court will hereafter issue a ruling on the gun's admissibility>. 3. HEREINAFTER <the exhibits hereafter referred to as Exhibit A and Exhibit B>.

here and there. See VALUE DATE.

herbannum (her-ə-ban-əm), n. [Law Latin fr. Old English here "army" + bann "proclamation"] Hist. 1. A proclamation summoning the army into the field. 2. A mulct or fine for not joining that army when summoned. 3. A tax or tribute for the support of that army.

herebote (her-ə-boht), n. [fr. Old English here "army" + bod "command"] Hist. In England, a royal edict summoning the people to the battlefield; an edict commanding subjects into battle. — Also spelled herebode; hebote.

hereby, adv. By this document; by these very words <I hereby declare my intention to run for public office>.

heredad (e-re-dahth), n. Spanish law. 1. A piece of land under cultivation; a cultivated farm. 2. An inheritance or heirship.

heredad yacente (e-re-dath yah-sen-te). An inheritance not yet accepted. See hereditas jacens under HEREDITAS.

heredero (e-re-ther-oh), n. Spanish law. 1. An owner of a cultivated farm. 2. An heir.

heredes. See HERES.

heredes proximi (hə-ree-deez prok-sə-mī), n. [Latin] Nearest or next heirs.

heredes remotiores (hə-ree-deez ri-moh-sheer-eez), n. [Latin] Heirs more remote; relatives other than children or descendants.

heredipeta (he-rə-dip-ə-tə), n. [Law Latin] Hist. A legacy-hunter; the seeker of an inheritance.

heredis instituto (hə-ree-dis in-sti-t[y]oo-toh), n. [Latin] Roman law. The designation in a will of a person as the testator's heir. • A testator's failure to appoint an heir could destroy the validity of the will.

hereditament (her-ə-dit-ə-mənt or hə-red-i-tə-mənt). 1. Any property that can be inherited; anything that passes by intestacy. 2. Real property; land.

corporeal hereditament (kor-por-ee-əl). A tangible item of property, such as land, a building, or a fixture.

incorporeal hereditament (in-kor-por-ee-əl). An intangible right in land, such as an easement. • The various types at common law were advowsons, annuities, commons, dignities, franchises, offices, pensions, rents, tithes, and ways.

hereditary, adj. Of or relating to inheritance; that descends from an ancestor to an heir.

hereditas (hə-red-i-tas), n. [Latin] 1. Roman law. An inheritance by universal succession to a decedent. • This succession applied whether the decedent died testate or intestate, and whether in trust (ex fideicommisso) for another or not. The comparable right under Praetorian law was bonorum possessio, possession of an inheritance that could be the basis of a right to succeed. 2. Hist. An estate transmissible by descent; an inheritance. — Also spelled haereditas.

hereditas damnosa (hə-red-i-tas dam-noh-sə). A burdensome inheritance; an inheritance whose debts exceed its assets.

hereditas jacens (hə-red-i-tas jay-senz). [Latin iaceo "to lie"] 1. Property belonging to an estate before an heir accepts it. • This term had a similar meaning at common law. See ABEYANCE (2).

"Hereditas jacens is the term applied to an inheritance which has not yet vested, an inheritance, that is to say, which has been 'delata' to a heres extraneus (i.e. voluntarius), but has not yet been acquired by him." Rudolph Sohm, The Institutes: A Textbook of the History and System of Roman Private Law 512 (James Crawford Ledlie trans., 3d ed. 1907).

2. Hist. A decedent's estate that has no heir or legatee to take it; an escheated estate. — Also termed caduca. See ESCHEAT. 3. Hist. An inheritance without legal owner and thus open to the first occupant. — Also spelled hereditas iacens.

hereditas legitima (hə-red-i-tas læ-jit-i-mə). A succession or inheritance devolving by operation of law rather than by will. See INTES-TACY.

hereditas luctuosa (hə-red-i-tas læk-choo-oh-sə). A sad or mournful inheritance; one that disturbs the natural order of mortality (turbato ordine mortalitatis), as that of a parent inheriting a child's estate. • This term is more literary than legal. — Also termed tristis successio.

hereditas testamentaria (hə-red-i-tas tes-tə-men-tair-ee-ə). Testamentary inheritance; succession to an estate under a decedent's will.

heredity. 1. Archaic. Hereditary succession; an inheritance. 2. The hereditary transmission of characteristics from a parent to a child; the biological law by which a living being tends to repeat itself in its descendants.

herein, adv. In this thing (such as a document, section, or matter) <the due-process arguments stated herein should convince the court to reverse the judgment>.

hereinafter, adv. Later in this document <the buyer agrees to purchase the property described hereinafter>. — Also loosely termed hereafter.

herenach (her-ə-nak), n. [fr. Old Irish airchin-nich "chief man"] An archdeacon. — Also spelled erenach.

hereof, adv. Of this thing (such as a provision or document) <the conditions hereof are stated in section 3>.

heres (heer-eez), n. [Latin] Roman law. A successor to the rights and liabilities of a deceased person; an heir. • Because the heres succeeded to both the rights and the debts of the decedent, the office was more similar to a modern executor than an heir at law. The institution of the heres was the essential characteristic of a testament; if this was not done, the instrument was called a codicillus. — Also spelled (in Law Latin) haeres. Pl. heredes (hə-ree-deez) or (for haeres) haeredes.

heres astrarius (as-trair-ee-əs). [Law Latin "heir of the hearth"] An heir who has received, by conveyance, an ancestor's estate during the ancestor's lifetime.

heres de facto (di fak-toh). [Law Latin "heir from fact"] Hist. 1. An heir whose status arises from the disseisin or other wrongful act of the heir's ancestor. See DISSEISIN. 2. An heir in fact, as distinguished from an heir by law (de jure).

heres ex asse (as-ee). [Latin "sole heir"] Roman law. An heir to the whole estate.

heres ex testamento. See heres factus.

heres extraneus (ek-stray-nee-əs). [Latin "extraneous heir"] Roman law. An external heir; one not subject to the testator's power (potestas) and hence not bound to accept the inheritance.

heres factus (fak-təs). [Latin "made heir"] An heir appointed by will; a testamentary heir. — Also termed heres ex testamento; heres institutus. Cf. heres natus.

heres fideicommissarius (fi-dee-i-kom-ə-sair-ee-əs). [Latin] Roman law. The person for whose benefit an estate was given by will to a fiduciary heir. • This office corresponds closely with the cestui qui trust of the common law. Cf. heres fiduciarius.

heres fiduciarius (fi-d[y]oo-shee-air-ee-əs). [Latin "fiduciary heir"] Roman law. A person made heir by will, in trust for the benefit of another; an heir subject to a trust. Cf. heres fideicommissarius.

heres institutus. See heres factus.

heres legitimus (lə-jit-i-məs). [Latin "lawful heir"] Roman law. An heir entitled to succeed (on intestacy) by statute.

heres natus (nay-təs). [Latin "heir by birth"] An heir by reason of birth; an heir at law or by intestacy. Cf. heres factus.

heres necessarius (nes-ə-sair-ee-əs). [Latin "necessary heir"] Roman law. A person compelled to serve as heir, usu. either a slave freed on the testator's death or a free person in the testator's power.

heres rectus (rek-təs). [Law Latin] Hist. A right or proper heir.

heres suus (s[y]oo-əs). [Latin "one's own heir"] 1. A decedent's proper or natural heir; a lineal descendant of the deceased. 2. Roman law. A free person who was subject to the testator's power (potestas) but who could exercise full legal rights upon the testator's death.

heres suus et necessarius (s[y]oo-əs et nes-ə-sair-ee-əs). [Latin "one's own and necessary heir"] A free person subject to the decedent's potestas. • These heirs were called necessary because they became heirs by law, not by the decedent's choice. But since this was also true of slaves, when named heirs in a will, the former class was designated suus et necessarius by way of distinction, the word suus denoting that the necessity arose from the relationship to the decedent.

ultimas heres (əl-ti-məs). The last or remote heir; the lord.

heresy (her-ə-see), n. 1. Opinion or doctrine contrary to (usu. Catholic) church dogma. 2. Hist. In England, an offense against religion, consisting not in totally denying Christianity, but in publicly denying some of its essential doctrines; an opinion on divine subjects devised solely by human reason, openly taught, and obstinately maintained. • This offense is now subject only to ecclesiastical correction and is no longer punishable by the secular law.

hereto, adv. To this document <the exhibits are attached hereto>.

heretofore, adv. Up to now; before this time .

hereunder, adv. 1. Later in this document <review the provisions hereunder before signing the consent form>. 2. In accordance with this document <notice hereunder must be provided within 30 days after the loss>.

herewith, adv. With or in this document <enclosed herewith are three copies>.

heriot (her-ee-ət), n. [fr. Old English here "army" + geatwa "trappings"] Hist. A customary tribute of goods and chattels, payable to the lord of the fee on the tenant's death. • Heriot derives from an earlier feudal service consisting of military equipment returned to the lord on the tenant's death; over time it came to refer only to the chattel payment due at the tenant's death.

"We are told that the ancient heriot (heregeatu, military apparel) had at one time consisted of the horses and arms lent by the lord to his man which on the man's death were returned to the lord. . . . Turning to manorial surveys, we find it among the commonest of customs that when a tenant in villeinage dies, the lord shall have the best beast; sometimes a similar due is taken from the goods of the dead freeholder, and it is to these customary dues that the name 'heriot' permanently attaches itself." 1 Frederick Pollock & Frederic W. Maitland, The History of English Law Before the Time of Edward I 312, 317 (2d ed. 1898).

heriot custom. A heriot due by custom. • This term is used primarily to distinguish a heriot service from an ordinary heriot.

heriot service. A tribute arising from special reservation in a grant or lease of lands, and thus amounting to little more than rent.

herislit (her-ə-sleet or hair-), n. [Old English] Hist. 1. The act of surrendering; laying down of arms. 2. The crime of deserting from an army.

high bailiff. See BAILIFF.

High Commission Court. See COURT OF HIGH COMMISSION.

High Court. See HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

High Court of Admiralty. In England, a court exercising jurisdiction in matters relating to shipping, collision, and salvage cases. • The court dates from the 14th century, and much of its early history concerns prize and piracy cases. Its jurisdiction varied through the centuries, sometimes extending into criminal matters and other areas of law not related directly to maritime issues. The Judicature Acts of 1873–1875 merged the Court into the High Court as part of the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division. The Administration of Justice Act of 1970 established a new Admiralty Court as part of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court. It is regulated by the Supreme Court Act of 1981. — Also termed Court of the Lord High Admiral; Court of Admiralty. Cf. ADMIRALTY (1).

"To the office of the Lord High Admiral (originally a naval official concerned with the command of the fleet and the suppression of piracy and wrecking) there was annexed a court which acquired a jurisdiction over civil cases of a maritime nature. Just how and when this happened is too cloudy and controversial for simple or even accurate summary, but by the time of Richard II (1377–1400) the admiral and vice-admiral were transacting enough judicial business to move Parliament to limit their jurisdiction by statute to 'a thing done upon the sea,' and in Tudor times the court was well established as a court of record, doing a large civil business. It slowly but surely took away most of their business from the local maritime courts in the port towns, and attracted the easily aroused jealousy of the common law courts, as well as the dislike of those who feared it as a prerogative court. . . . These factors resulted in the rather anticlimactic eclipse of the court for almost two centuries." Grant Gilmore & Charles L. Black, Jr., The Law of Admiralty § 1–4, at 9–10 (2d ed. 1975).

High Court of Chivalry. Hist. A court of honor having jurisdiction over matters relating to deeds of arms and war, armorial insignia, and precedence. — Also termed Court of Chivalry; Court of Earl Marshal. See COURT OF HONOR.

"This Curia Marescalli, or High Court of Chivalry, was revived by James I as a court of honour, which not only tried the right to distinctions of honour and coat armour but also redressed affronts to honour such as slander. The slander jurisdiction was later denied, leaving it with a jurisdiction probably confined to disputes over armorial bearings, which are determined according to the law of arms. The court, which has only sat once since 1737, is the last English court to use the procedure of the civil law." J.H. Baker, An Introduction to English Legal History 142 (3d ed. 1990).

High Court of Delegates. See COURT OF DELEGATES.

High Court of Errors and Appeals. See COURT OF ERRORS AND APPEALS.

hijack, vb. 1. To commandeer (a vehicle or airplane), esp. at gunpoint. 2. To steal or rob from (a vehicle or airplane in transit).

Hilary Rules. Hist. A collection of English pleading rules designed to ease the strict pleading requirements of the special-pleading system, esp. by limiting the scope of the general issue in the formed actions and by forcing the defendant to set up affirmatively all matters other than a denial of the breach of duty or of the wrongful act. • Promulgated in England in the 1834 Hilary Term, these rules followed an 1828 initiative to examine procedural laws and other subjects and to report to Parliament changes that might be enacted. The rules had the unintended effect of extending the reach of strict-pleading requirements into new areas of law. Widespread dissatisfaction with the Hilary Rules led to the liberalization of the pleading system under the 1873-1875 Judicature Acts. — Formerly also termed New Rules.

"The failure of the Hilary Rules . . . lay in their insistence on special pleading as it was understood late in the eighteenth century. That parties should plead precisely, and clarify as far as possible the issue between them, is one thing; that their endeavours to do so should be judged by the extremely artificial standards of the old system, was quite another." Theodore F.T. Plucknett, A Concise History of the Common Law 416 (5th ed. 1956).

Hilary sittings. In England, a term of court beginning on January 11 of each year and ending on the Wednesday before Easter. • The Hilary sittings were known as Hilary term until 1875. Cf. EASTER SITTINGS; MICHAELMAS SITTING.

Hilton doctrine. Civil procedure. The rule that in a dispute between parties to an oil-and-gas lease, royalty owners who would lose their rights if the defendant's lease were terminated are regarded as indispensable parties to a proceeding challenging the lease. Hilton v. Atlantic Refining Co., 327 F.2d 217 (5th Cir. 1964).

Himalaya clause. Maritime law. A provision in a bill of lading extending the carrier's liability limitations under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act to the carrier's agents and independent contractors. • This type of clause is usu. strictly construed. See CARRIAGE OF GOODS BY SEA ACT.

"An exculpatory or other beneficial clause which seeks to extend to noncarriers, partial immunity or other protections afforded to the carrier by the bill of lading is popularly known to the admiralty bar as a Himalaya clause. This misnomer derives from an earlier British case involving the vessel Himalaya, Adler v. Dickson. . . ." Nicholas J. Healy, Carriage of Goods by Sea: Application of the "Himalaya Clause" to Subdeleagees of the Carrier, 2 Mar. Law. 91, 111 (1977).

hold out, vb. 1. To represent (oneself or another) as having a certain legal status, as by claiming to be an agent or partner with authority to enter into transactions <even though he was only a promoter, Schwartz held himself out as the principal>. 2. To refuse to yield or submit; to stand firm <Womack held out for a higher salary and better benefits>.

holdover tenancy. See tenancy at sufferance under TENANCY.

holdover tenant. See TENANT.

holdup. See STICKUP.

holograph (hol-ə-graf), n. A document (such as a will or deed) that is entirely handwritten by its author. — Also termed olograph. Cf. ONOMASTIC; SYMBOLIC. — holographic, adj.

holographic will. See WILL.

homage (hom-ij). In feudal times, a ceremony that a new tenant performed for the lord to acknowledge the tenure. • This was the most honorable service that a free tenant might do for a lord. In the ceremony, kneeling before the lord, the tenant placed his hands between the lord's hands while saying, "I become your man from this day forward, of life and limb and earthly honor, and to you will be faithful and loyal, and bear you faith, for the tenements that I claim to hold of you, saving the faith that I owe unto our sovereign lord the king, so help me God."

"Homage is an oath of fidelity, acknowledging himself to be the lord's man: wherein the tenant must be ungirt, uncovered, kneel upon both knees, and hold both his hands together between the lord's hands sitting before him. This is to be done only to the lord himself." Sir Henry Finch, Law, or a Discourse Thereof 143 (1759).

homage ancestral (hom-ij an-ses-trəl). [Law French] A type of homage in which a tenant and the tenant's ancestors have held immemorially of another by the service of homage. • This long-standing relationship bound the lord to warrant the title and to hold the tenant clear of all services to superior lords. — Also spelled homage auncstral (aw-mahzh on-se-stral).

homage liege (hom-ij leej). Homage due the sovereign alone as supreme lord, done without any saving or exception of the rights of other lords. — Also termed homagium ligium (hə-may-jee-əm II-jee-əm).

homage jury. See JURY.

homagio respectuando (hə-may-jee-oh ri-spek-choo-an-doh), n. [Law Latin “homage to the respected”] Hist. A writ to the escheator commanding the delivery of seisin of lands to the heir of the king’s tenant, even though the heir had not performed homage.

homagium (hə-may-jee-əm), n. [Law Latin] See HOMAGE.

homagium ligium. See homage liege under HOMAGAE.

homagium planum (play-nəm), n. [Law Latin “plain homage”] Hist. A type of homage binding the homager to nothing more than fidelity, without obligation either of military service or of attendance in the superior’s courts.

homagium reddere (red-ə-ree), n. [Law Latin “to renounce homage”] Hist. The process, prescribed in feudal law by a set form and method, by which a vassal disowns and defies the lord.

homagium simplex (sim-pleks), n. [Law Latin “simple homage”] Hist. A type of homage that acknowledges tenure, while reserving the rights of other lords.

hombre bueno (awm-bray bway-noh), n. Spanish law. 1. A judge. 2. An arbitrator chosen by the parties to a suit. 3. A man in good standing; one who is competent to testify in a suit.

Home Owners Warranty. A warranty and insurance program that, among other coverage, insures a new home for ten years against major structural defects. • The program was developed by the Home Owners Warranty Corporation, a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders. Builders often provide this type of coverage, and many states provide similar warranty protection by statute. — Abbr. HOW. — Also spelled Home Owners’ Warranty.

home port. See PORT.

home-port doctrine. Maritime law. The rule mandating that a vessel engaged in interstate and foreign commerce is taxable only at its home port, usu. where the vessel is registered.

home rule. A state legislative provision or action allocating a measure of autonomy to a local government, conditional on its acceptance of certain terms. Cf. LOCAL OPTION.

“Home rule in the United States was sometimes envisioned in its early days as giving the cities to whom such rule was granted full-fledged sovereignty over local affairs, thus bringing about dual state and local sovereignty along the national plan of federal and state governments. But such local sovereignty has never developed, nor have any clear-cut distinctions between state and local power.” Osborne M. Reynolds, Jr., Handbook of Local Government Law § 35, at 96 (1982).

home-rule charter. See CHARTER (3).

homestead. The house, outbuildings, and adjoining land owned and occupied by a person or family as a residence. • As long as the homestead does not exceed in area or value the limits fixed by law, in most states it is exempt from forced sale for collection of a debt. — Also termed homestead estate.

business homestead. The premises on which a family’s business is located. • In some states, business homesteads are exempt from execution or judicial sale for most kinds of debt.

constitutional homestead. A homestead, along with its exemption from forced sale, conferred on the head of a household by a state constitution.

homesteader. One who acquires or occupies a homestead.

homestead law. A statute exempting a homestead from execution or judicial sale for debt, unless all owners, usu. a husband and wife, have jointly mortgaged the property or otherwise subjected it to creditors' claims.

"Almost all states also have legislative provisions, commonly referred to as homestead laws, designed to protect the family home from the reach of certain classes of creditors. . . . The protection afforded by an exemption statute is not absolute. A federal tax claim may be satisfied from 'exempt property.' A number of states make similar exceptions for state taxes, claims for alimony and child support, materialmen and mechanics' liens. By statute in most states, case law in others, purchase money mortgages and security interests are generally not affected by an exemption statute." David G. Epstein & Steve H. Nickles, Consumer Law in a Nutshell 384-85 (2d ed. 1981).

homicide (hom-ə-sīd), n. The killing of one person by another. — homicidal, adj.

"The legal term for killing a man, whether lawfully or unlawfully, is 'homicide.' There is no crime of 'homicide.' Unlawful homicide at common law comprises the two crimes of murder and manslaughter. Other forms of unlawful homicide have been created by statute: certain new forms of manslaughter (homicide with diminished responsibility, and suicide pacts), infanticide, and causing death by dangerous driving." Glanville Williams, Textbook of Criminal Law 204 (1978).

criminal homicide. 1. Homicide prohibited and punishable by law, such as murder or manslaughter. 2. The act of purposely, knowingly, recklessly, or negligently causing the death of another human being. Model Penal Code § 210.1.

criminally negligent homicide. See negligent homicide.

excusable homicide. 1. Homicide resulting from a person's harmful act, committed without intention to harm another. 2. See justifiable homicide (1).

felonious homicide. Homicide committed unlawfully, without legal justification or excuse. • This is the category into which murder and manslaughter fall.

homicide by misadventure. See ACCIDENTAL KILLING.

homicide per infortunium (pər in-fort[ɪ]oo-nee-əm). [Latin "homicide by misfortune"] The unintentional killing of another while engaged in a lawful act; ACCIDENTAL KILLING. See PER INFORTUNUM.

innocent homicide. Homicide that does not involve criminal guilt.

justifiable homicide. 1. The killing of another in self-defense when faced with the danger of death or serious bodily injury. —

Also termed excusable homicide. See SELF-DEFENSE. 2. A killing mandated or permitted by the law, such as execution for a capital crime or killing to prevent a crime or a criminal's escape.

"It should be noted that a justifiable homicide is not criminal, since it is a killing which the law has either commanded or permitted: the actus in such a case is not legally punishable, and therefore we may perhaps say that it is an actus of killing which is not reus. As we shall see in most cases of justifiable homicide the killing is intentional, and therefore the mental element of criminal responsibility is clearly present: but there is no crime committed since there is no actus reus." J.W. Cecil Turner, Kenny's Outlines of Criminal Law 109 (16th ed. 1952).

"English lawyers once distinguished between 'excusable' homicide (e.g. accidental non-negligent killing) and 'justifiable' homicide (e.g. killing in self-defence or in the arrest of a felon) and different legal consequences once attached to these two forms of homicide. To the modern lawyer this distinction has no longer any legal importance: he would simply consider both kinds of homicide to be cases where some element, negative or positive, required in the full definition of criminal homicide (murder or manslaughter) was lacking. But the distinction between these two different ways in which actions may fail to constitute a criminal offence is still of great moral importance. Killing in self-defence is an exception to a general rule making killing punishable; it is admitted because the policy or aims which in general justify the punishment of killing (e.g. protection of human life) do not include cases such as this. In the case of 'justification' what is done is regarded as something which the law does not condemn, or even welcomes." H.L.A. Hart, "Prolegomenon to the Principles of Punishment," in Punishment and Responsibility 1, 13 (1968).

negligent homicide. Homicide resulting from the careless performance of a legal or illegal act in which the danger of death is apparent; the killing of a human being by criminal negligence. — Also termed criminally negligent homicide. See criminal negligence under NEGLIGENCE.

"There is no common-law offense known as 'negligent homicide.' As a matter of the common law of crimes any killing below the grade of manslaughter is innocent homicide. Some of the new penal codes have a classification scheme which (omitting degrees or other variations) divides criminal homicide into murder, manslaughter and criminally negligent homicide — or simply negligent homicide. For the most part, however, this has been achieved by removing from manslaughter the offense of homicide by criminal negligence and using this to constitute the newly named offense. Thus, though there are a few exceptions, most states will have no homicide offense which would be below common-law manslaughter." Rollin M. Perkins & Ronald N. Boyce, Criminal Law 116-17 (3d ed. 1982).

reckless homicide. The unlawful killing of another person with conscious indifference toward that person's life. Cf. MANSLAUGHTER.

vehicular homicide. The killing of another person by one's unlawful or negligent operation of a motor vehicle.

house of worship. See HOUSE.

housing codes. See BUILDING CODES.

housing court. See COURT.

hovering act. Int'l law. A statute applying to a coastal country's criminal jurisdiction over ships, and persons aboard those ships, when the ships are outside the country's territory.

"The notion of hovering acts evolved long before that of a belt of uniform width in the form of territorial waters. Great Britain's first anti-smuggling legislation to operate at a stated distance seaward was in 1719, applying to the master of any ship 'found at anchor or hovering within two leagues from the shore.' Later enactments extended this limit to three, then four, then eight leagues. A statute of 1794 gave power to seize and confiscate customable goods in vessels 'found at anchor, or hovering' inside specific straight lines drawn between lines on the British coasts, thus resembling the 'King's Chambers' of the Stuart era. In 1805 the British Parliament extended the seizure limit to 100 leagues (300 miles) from the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland in respect of vessels 'belonging wholly or in part to His Majesty's subjects, or whereof one-half of the persons on board shall be subjects of His Majesty.' Foreign-flag vessels could have fallen within this category. In the case of Le Louis (1817) 165 E.R. 1464, the British Admiralty judge Lord Stowell described these statutes as being permitted by 'the common courtesy of nations for their convenience.'" Geoffrey Marston, "Hovering Acts," in 2 Encyclopedia of Public International Law 884-85 (1995).
